

Did you Know?

What does Anglian Water do about a drought?

Making sure that there's enough water to go round is a big job.

Anglian Water is doing all it can to make sure we use the water we've got as wisely as possible.

It is checking that all the pipes, which carry the water to our homes, are in a good state. This means watching and listening for leaks and fixing them as soon as they can.

Anglian Water has all kinds of water-saving ideas. Some mean spending a lot of money on new equipment like pumps and reservoirs. Other ideas include things we can do at home.

Look out for the special 'Drop 20' campaign, which gives all sorts of ideas for everyone to save at least 20 litres of water every day.

You might want to use a special water-saving kit or 'Save-a-Flush Freddie', which helps you save one litre of water with every flush of the toilet.

What can I do to help?

Anglian Water is asking everyone to help. You can join in too.

Two simple things that will make a BIG difference:

1. Turn the tap off when you are cleaning your teeth. That will stop clean water from just running out of the tap and straight down the drain.

2. Rather than take a deep bath - keep clean by taking a short shower. You will use much less water.
